HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY

A Word From McKelvie

S. R. McKelvie, publisher of The Nebraska Farmer, has been so successful in his business that his statements about farm papers should be given careful consideration. He says: "First of all, a farm paper should be practical and dependable. "Second, it should be so free from unclean advertising (patent medicine, Hneur, etc.) that every member of the family can read it. "Third, it should stop when the time is out. "Fourth, it should sell at the lowest possible cash price without the use of premiums."

Mr. McKelvie has brought The Nebraska Farmer—"Nebraska's Real Farm Paper"—up to its present high standard by observing these policies.

HIS DECEMBER HALF PRICE OFFER
The regular subscription price is $1.00 per year in advance. But we are authorized to announce that, during DECEMBER ONLY, any reader of this paper who will clip this notice and send it to The Nebraska Farmer, Lincoln, Nebraska, with $1.00, will receive The Nebraska Farmer every week for TWO FULL YEARS. This is certainly a bargain. Don't fail to accept it.

A New Year's Sermon

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D. D.,
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago

TEXT—And now Lord, what wait I for? My hope is in Thee.—Psalm 107.

Another twelve month has rolled around and we are still here. How remarkable this is! Some people think death is the greatest wonder of human history, but life is a stranger miracle. The steam engine in a vessel tied up at its dock is not so extraordinary as one in a vessel plowing the broad seas; and it is less singular that the machinery of our existence should cease to operate, than that it should operate at all. How surprising that one should live an hour, to say nothing of three score years and ten!

"Strange that a harp of thousand strings Should keep in tune so long."

When we thus reflect, it is not to be wondered if, like David, we sometimes put the question as to what we are waiting for?

Our Experiences Last Year. Putting the question to ourselves, is it enough for boys and girls to say that they are waiting to be men and women? Or, for youths to say that they are waiting to get a start in life and settle down? Or, for fathers and mothers to say that they are waiting to see their children educated and established? Or, for others that there are enterprises to whose success their presence is still necessary? Are these contracted carnal things really what we are waiting for?

Let us ask God the question, as David did, and he replies:
1. It may be that you are waiting to be saved, for God is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance and live. How he has been pleading with some of you during the past year! Was there no sermon, no hymn of invitation or warning, no loss of a friend by death, no providential escape from bodily peril or serious illness, to remind you of your mortality, and plead with you to accept Christ?

2. It may be that you are waiting to bear fruit. By the grace of God you are already saved let us suppose, but for what purpose are you saved? Why did he not call you to himself at the moment of your conversion? As a saint, for what are you waiting? "Ye have not chosen me," said Christ, "but I have chosen you, and ordained you that ye shall go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain." (John 15:16.) Is it for this reason you are waiting here? Is the dresser of the vineyard pleading that you be let alone this year also, that if you bear fruit it shall be well, and if not, then after that shall thou be cut down?

The Second Coming of Christ. 3. It may be that you are waiting for his coming. The coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, personally and visibly, for his saints, has ever been the hope of the true church, and blessed is the man whose heart is animated by it. Blessed is he, who like the mother of Siera, only with a holler expectation, is looking out of the window and crying through the lattice:
"Why is his chariot so long in coming? Why tarry the wheels of his chariot?"
Oh, blessed be God, that from his own word the cheerful announcement is made "Yet a little while, and he that shall come, will come, and will not tarry."

You have seen the luscious fruit hanging from the bough long after the digging and the pruning have been ended, waiting for the genial sun to put the final bloom upon its beauty, and beget the sweetness and mellowness of completed growth. Something like this is often true in a human life, and may be true in yours. "We all do fade as the leaf," but the fading of some is often illumined by the grandeur of an autumnal sunset. God grant this to be true of you, young and old, rich and poor, first and last. May you have a "Happy New Year" in the highest and truest sense. "Happy is the people whose God is the Lord." Accept him, serve him, wait for him. It is only as we stand in such relationship to him that, after employing the psalmist's question, "And now Lord, what wait I for?" we can equally apply the comfort of that which follows it, and add, "My hope is in thee."

"Upheld by hope"—a glorious hope. As days and years roll by: The coming of our Lord and King Is surely drawing nigh.

"Upheld by hope" all toll is sweet With this glad thought in view, The Master may appear tonight To call his servants true.

"Upheld by hope," in darkest days, Faith can the light discern; The deepening glory in the East Proclaims deliverance nigh!

"Upheld by hope," how glad the heart! My soul is on the wing! 'E'en now his hand is on the door, He comes—my glorious King! —E. May Grimes.

The Value of Spare Moments

From every section, and from all sorts and conditions of men, messages come to tell of earnings increased and futures brightened through study of I. C. S. Courses during spare time.

One letter gives the romance of a young man in California that began with little or no education; another tells the story of a high school graduate in Maine that found himself educated for everything but to make a living. Here are the heart-throbs of a fellow that toiled 12 hours a day and studied his Course as best he could; of a foreman or superintendent that enrolled because his ambition aimed at still bigger things.

No matter where you live, how little spare time you have, or how brief your schooling, the I. C. S. can raise your salary. That statement is backed with 20 years of success and a record of 400 or more advancement letters received every month.

I. C. S. Courses have made draftsmen, foremen, and superintendents of shop hands; building contractors, architects, structural and concrete engineers of carpenters and masons; advertising men, window trimmers, chemists, illustrators, and designers of clerks; electrical, mechanical and steam engineers of laborers; mine inspectors, foremen, and mining engineers of mine workers; bridge engineers, surveyors and mappers, civil engineers, gas engineers, automobile runners and civil service employees of young men willing to use their spare time to mold a career.

Suppose you were to increase your earnings only $20 a month—what a fine return that would be on your spare-time investment! G. O. Gibbney, of Mount Pleasant, Pa., increased his earnings $250 a month, and hundreds have done as well.

Mark and mail this coupon and you will receive free information how you can increase your earnings by spare-time study.
